Fodder Solutions

Being able to grow a custom fed daily on site is unique when feeding horses.

Growing grains such as barley, lupins, soybean and corn. All of these grains sprouts have been tested for energy, fat, vitamins & minerals. Allowing owners and trainers to reduce their hard feed costs dramatically replacing it with the green, natural mats of fodder.

The entire mat is consumed by the horse including the sprouted grain and roots. Being a live feed full of chlorophyll and enzymes the feed has been reported to increase red blood cell count and recovery after work.

To assist trainers with custom diets Fodder Solutions now can offer suggested diets for horses including those racing or breeding utilising the feed grown on site in their own system.

New for 2010 the T6, 3 mats daily will fit in your feed room from only $6000 complete.

ThinLine

"Chance Bye" currently enjoying the spot light for her success has ThinLine in part to thank for her consistency winning form.

Only released in Australia a couple of years ago by Equine Laser Therapy, it is only now trainers are sitting up and paying attention as word gets around the stables the immediate difference using the product makes.

On offer is an extensive range for back and leg protection for training and race day.

Mick Tubman, trainer of "Chance Bye", uses the specially designed shock absorbing pads and boots during train to prevent sore back and ensure legs are cool and protected.

In addition to the protection range ThinLine also offers a high quality leather products of halters, girths and bridles that have the ThinLine product used offering softness on normal pressure points.

The halter has gained a lot of interest for its quality and soft feel by many studs for presentation during the sales.

Developed in the USA only 5 years ago and new items being developed regularly, ThinLine very quickly is becoming the protection your horse has to have for reliable performance.
